RELATED RESEARCH & PUBLICATIONS

When Spillovers Don't Spill: Unpacking the Heterogeneous Effects of Special Economic Zones in Sumatra [LINK] [ID]

2nd Place | 6th Sumatranomics | Bank Indonesia KPw Sumatera Utara 2025

This paper investigates why economic spillovers of SEZs in Sumatra are uneven across space and sectors. Using panel data for 154 districts/cities (2010–2024) and a DiD Staggered Adoption design, the study estimates impacts of proximity to Extractive, Services, and Innovation & Tourism SEZs on GRDP, employment, and productivity both in aggregate and by sector.

Paving the Way, Sustaining Hope: An Analysis of the Impact of the Trans-Java Toll Road on East Java's Economy* [LINK] [ID]

1st Place | EJAVEC Call for Paper | Bank Indonesia KPw Jawa Timur 2025

This study empirically assesses the economic impact of the Trans-Java Toll Road on East Java by examining changes in regional GDP, employment, and productivity across three key sectors. Using panel data from 30 regencies/cities (2011–2023) from SUSENAS, SAKERNAS, & CEIC, the research applies DiD Staggered Adoption with QGIS spatial analysis to capture effects of toll road proximity.
